Happiness

To a great extent, individual happiness is dependent on one's degree of freedom.

"Degrees of freedom are the number of independent variables that can be estimated in a statistical analysis and tell you how many items can be randomly selected before constraints must be put in place. "

In this context everyone is unique.

Everyone has the freedom to do that which one loves

“Let yourself be silently drawn by the stronger pull of what you really love.
Love is the bridge between you and everything” ~ Rumi
